NEWS,
Estancia, N. M.

Entered as second-class matter January 4, 1907, in the post-office at Estancia, N. M., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The Andrews slot machine is going to be in evidence again next year and the campaign slogan will be "Put an Andrews ballot in the slot and get statehood." This old slot machine is getting to be pretty well understood in New Mexico. There are too many blanks to suit most of the players. The statehood prize has been offered so often that some of the doubting Thomases may try the other machine next time, fearing that the mechanism of the slot machine, like that of the celebrated comptometer, has become deranged and that there is no chance to get the capital prize. The statehood prize has been promised so often and it has failed to materialize with such persistent regularity that people are becoming skeptical. For three years past The Eagle has been asserting positively that the republican party leaders had not the slightest intention of giving New Mexico statehood, notwithstanding the promise of President Roosevelt and the pledge of the party in its platforms. The attitude of the republican party toward New Mexico has not changed an iota in the past twenty years. The Struble report, which was made more than twenty years ago and the Beveridge report which is still fresh in the minds of the people of the territory, show the attitude of the republicans in congress toward New Mexico. There is not the slightest reason to expect statehood at this or the next session of congress. —Eagle.

Growing a Fertilizer Crop.

By H. W. Campbell, Lincoln, Neb.
A great many farmers have the idea that there is great virtue in a so-called green manure crop, that is, a crop of some rank growing plant which is turned under in the green state solely for the purpose of fertilizing the field. The growing of a green crop for the purpose mentioned in the semi-arid section of the country is wrong, especially on the soil of the average prairie. The water utilized by the growing plant is much more valuable conserved in the soil than any possible increase in fertility or humus from the green vegetation turned under. The advantage is not only found in the direct use of the water for growing of the anticipated crop but in the increased available fertility obtained through chemical action, promoted in the soil during the hotter part of the season that would not take place when the moisture is reduced by the growing plant. Plowing under dry straw unless very thinly and evenly scattered is dangerous. However, if evenly spread and disked into the top soil and then plowed under with soil somewhat moist followed by the subsurface packer, it is always an advantage. We are firm believers in putting into the soil all the manures or vegetable matter possible but care must be taken to keep the under portion firm.

The first application of Manzan, the great Pile remedy, will almost instantly give relief. Continued use of Manzan for a few days will effect a cure. The tube in which it is put up has a small nozzle attached, so that there is no inconvenience whatever. Manzan is for the cure of any kind of Piles. It is sold by Peoples Drug Store.
